We have worked with Jeff Austin from the Kalgoorlie Edensilk office for over 12 months and have found his business knowledge and coaching skills absolutely excellent.

When I think about the assistance that Jeff has provided to our business I can't help but reflect back to my time as a regular soldier in the Australian Army. A strange thought I know, but there are many similarities between the Army and business. Sometimes in life you think you are working at your limit, doing your best, pushing yourself to the limit and then someone pushes that limit a bit further. Much further than you ever thought possible. Like the Army, business is also about teamwork and even if you are a small business, wanting to grow to a big business, you can't do it alone. We have found the services of Jeff and the Edensilk team invaluable and highly recommend their services to anyone that needs an elite team behind the lines.
